This architectural drawing shows the front elevation of a three-story building. The facade is characterized by a central entrance on the ground floor, flanked by large windows. The second and third floors feature a series of windows, some of which are grouped together. The building has a decorative cornice with a central pediment and a small balcony or loggia on the second floor. The drawing is a technical sketch, likely for a construction plan or a historical record.

A detailed street map of the area around the University of Illinois at Chicago. The map shows a grid of streets including Belmont Avenue, Broadway Avenue, and various residential streets like Belmont Street, Broadway Street, and Belmont Place. A black circle highlights the intersection of Belmont Avenue and Broadway Avenue. The map also shows several buildings, including the University of Illinois at Chicago building, and a large green area representing a park or campus grounds. A compass rose is located in the top left corner, indicating North. The map is oriented with North at the top.

Architectural floor plan of the Rez-de-chaussée (ground floor) of a building. The plan shows a large rectangular hall with a staircase on the right side. The staircase is labeled "escalier" and has a width of 1.50. The hall has a width of 5.00 and a length of 11.00. There are several smaller rooms and corridors, including a bathroom labeled "bain" and a kitchen labeled "cuisine". The plan includes various dimensions and annotations in French, such as "Rez-de-chaussée" at the bottom and "escalier" for the staircase.

Architectural floor plan of the 1st floor (1er Etage) of a building. The plan shows a large central hall (SALA) with a staircase (SCALERA) on the right. There are several smaller rooms, including a study (STUDIO) and a library (BIBLIOTECA). The plan is annotated with dimensions in meters and centimeters, and includes a scale bar at the bottom. The drawing is signed 'C. C. C.' in the top right corner.
